

2015 Annual Report of Villa Vallila

Introduction

This annual report represents a summary of another year in the life of Villa Vallila.

We focused on strengthening of the community of inhabitants and assistants in the year 2015; two new inhabitants and one assistant joined the community. We visited several L'Arche communities abroad, some of us spent longer time in communities in Ireland and Poland, we met an international envoy of L'Arche twice and we met friends from other communities several times. We have established National Team for L'Arche (NaTA), which coordinates contacts between the communities and participants abroad. We have broadened work programs in our social therapeutic workshop. We also worked on legal change of the organization according to the new Civic Code and have become a „registered institution“. So we are „Villa Vallila, Registered Institution“ since October 2015.

People in Villa Vallila

Inhabitants of the community house (recipients of the sheltered housing service)

Those are people with a mild form of mental impairment, who cannot live on their own because of their adaptability problems. We offer them a sheltered housing service in the community house and in nearby efficiency apartments. They can live common lives like others with a targeted support. Each of them is involved into a work program within the social therapeutic workshop or therapeutic working programs (care for animals in the farm, work in the vegetable garden or in the greenhouse, maintenance of the surroundings of the house and the garden, work with wood). Some of them have succeeded to find a standard employment in the open employment market and have a permanent job. All of them participate according to their abilities and will on household operation. They are led to build up working habits, good daily regime, and healthy lifestyle. Attention is paid to meaningful spending their spare time.

Number of inhabitants – 10 (total capacity 10)

Community

Provision of the sheltered housing supports creation of a community of inhabitants and their assistants. The community members experience their common troubles and joys, learn mutual help, respect, patience, solving problems and adequate responses. They discover together important life values and individual gifts and learn mutual respect and honor. Most of them have to get over basic adversities still, as their mental and physical injuries are deep and make difficult to live contentedly and joyfully. Regular community sessions, individual talks, assistance days or community weekends are integral part of the community life. Everyone is supported to tell others his or her opinions, learns to listen to others and to seek solutions for the common or personal problems. All together learn to seek and use their own abilities, appreciate each other, and believe in their own value.

Recipients of the respite services

Those are mostly young people often with a serious health handicap (after car accidents, injuries and during long-term diseases). They come to the Villa mainly for relaxation or recondition programs. They have a possibility to join the life of the community, involve themselves into the regular activities and therapeutic programs. They bring to the community their own life stories and the inhabitants of the Villa can share their destiny. Usually, bonds are made during this time and besides common activities, their stay might be very enriching. Many of them often return to the Villa within the respite service program.

Number of recipients of the respite services: 19 (there are 3 permanent places for respite service; however, many of them come for respite service repeatedly several times a year).

Assistants (employees in social services)

They work year-round in the Villa. The assistants accompany the clients during their everyday activities, support their working abilities, and serve as an example in the lifestyle and social behavior. They support clients in keeping the household and to be economical with their money. They also help to arrange their civic affairs. The assistants are in daily contact with clients, guide them in healthy regime, motivate them to reasonable spending of their time and support them in their problems and decision making. They are strongly involved in the community life – they take part in various festivities and events also above the frame of their working hours and working duties.

5 full-time equivalents

Advisory board

Members of the advisory board meet bi-monthly in an office in Prague. They participate on institution guidance by analyzing the activities and management. They are a support in decision making and steering of the institution activities, support development programs for social services, participate on presentation events (concerts, festivities), and help with web pages, PR and fund-raising.

Institution basic data – legal changes

A short report in a form of an interview for Votické noviny

Can you remind us why the association was founded and its successes during almost twenty years of its existence?

Civic Association Villa Vallila was founded in 1996 with an aim to buy a run-down house in Červený Újezd near Votice, repair it, and create there a home for young people with healthy handicaps. We succeeded to repair the beautiful villa in Art Nouveau style, put the surrounding garden into order and create a space for community living in the house. So the old, abandoned villa started to live a new life and has become a home for young people without their own home or with various health problems.

We provide social services in Villa Vallila since the beginning. The first social service was sheltered living, which we offered as an alternative to institutional care or to a life in a non-functional family. We help people with handicaps to develop and use their natural possibilities and abilities and to get involved into a common life as much as possible within this social service.

You will celebrate 15 years of the community house next year. Who is a recipient of the service, how many people have already been in the house? And what do these people do in Villa?

In the community house lives 10 people now. The service of sheltered living is an offer to solve their difficult life situation. Altogether about 30 people with various problems and needs have used the house. Some of them left after some time, strengthened in their abilities and skills, and they are trying to live independently, if possible. The current community in Villa is formed by people with health handicaps – inhabitants of Villa Vallila, their assistants, and volunteers.

Common day is divided between work and rest. Some of the inhabitants work in standard employments; others are involved in working programs or work in the social therapeutic workshop. Free time is filled by rest and leisure activities. All the inhabitants get together during the common dinner in the evening. They share their experiences and plan other common days. Villa has become a real home for some of them – a place where they belong, find friends, experience acceptance and recognition, and where they can share their joys and sorrows.

The association works on principles of L'Arche. Can you explain these principles? Is it possible to apply them in practice?

We were influenced by the ideas of L'Arche from the very beginning, when we were founding the association. We are interested by the way of life and by ideas of people, who live differently; both people with or without a handicap. Their approach to people with handicaps, what one can find in them, if one looks carefully, inspires us. We have visited several communities abroad (Ireland, England, France, Italy, Poland, Slovenia, Ukraine).

The movement L'Arche is a federation of communities where people with handicaps live with people who work and want to live with them. Communities based on mutual relations of people with handicaps and their assistants can be found in "family" houses, workshops, schools and day care centers. L'Arche was founded by Jean Vanier in 1964. The communities of L'Arche are spread in 33 countries around the world today. The mission of the communities is to accompany their members in personal, spiritual and professional development. The communities of L'Arche try to represent a sign of hope, solidarity, faith, and peace in present-day world.

There is no community of L'Arche in the Czech Republic yet, although several communities and organizations are inspired by this movement. Our long-term vision is to work according to the ideas of L'Arche and join the world movement. We are convinced that everyone can find his or her uniqueness through the relations in a community and thus fully live his life.

What are the funds of the civic association? How do you succeed to find money for operation of the community house?

Villa Vallila survives and thrives thanks to the effort and courage of all employees and volunteers, who participate on its operation. The funds needed for its operation come from subventions from the national budget allocated by Central Bohemia Region. There are payments from the inhabitants (clients), who pay for accommodation and meals, and last but not least kind-hearted donors contribute by financial gifts. They substantially support our activities. We also ask foundations and company donors for contributions for particular projects. Thanks to support of two foundations we succeeded to build a stable for a horse and furnish a social-therapeutic workshop this year...

Villa Vallila is also an interesting architectonic object. Its look has improved during passing years. Is there still anything to repair? What else needs to be repaired or reconstructed?

Villa is a unique building with precious original reliefs made by sculptor František Bílek. It is amazing that it was possible to save the house and that it can serve now and be a showpiece of the village and of the countryside. Villa was repaired in three stages: The first stage commenced just after purchasing of the building, which was in really bad shape; the roof was repaired, inner installations were done, also restrooms, bathrooms and living rooms were reconstructed. During the second stage the attic was built, other rooms and bathrooms were rebuilt too. During the third stage the outer facade of the house was repaired. It took two years. This extensive work was finished in summer 2014. We do not plan any further extensive reconstruction now, but we plan to rebuild bathrooms and restrooms in the ground floor to be wheel-chair accessible next year.

Villa Vallila is a provider of social services. Which services do you currently provide?

We provide three social services: sheltered housing, respite service, and social-therapeutic workshop. There is a big demand for all the three services and their capacity is full now. However, we receive a subvention from the government for sheltered housing only; the rest are not registered by the regional government...

Further we organize enlightenment, culture and recreation events: fund-raising concerts, advent concert, garden parties, recreation stays. Some of these activities are also part of work of the social-therapeutic workshop.

Work of the assistant is not easy for sure. What does it include? Do you have sufficient number of assistants and/or volunteers?

Work of our assistants is diverse, creative, and first of all meaningful. The assistant – a social worker – is in fact a guide, who accompanies and supports young people living in Villa to manage their everyday activities, helps them if necessary in various particular goals, and supports them to live healthy. The assistant creates and offer a meaningful daily program and helps the inhabitants to organize their time and work within the daily regime.

The assistant supervises development of personal, working and moral abilities of the inhabitants and strengthens their skills. Each inhabitant has one key assistant with whom he or she plans the daily schedule, shares his or her experiences, solves problems, and can ask him or her for help in troubles. The assistant becomes his or her friend and advisor.

We still seek volunteers – those are people who can be effective helpers in all provided services and there is never enough of them.

Are the inhabitants capable to gain work in the open market?

Some of the inhabitants have good working skills and habits and we try to find them employment in common working environment. Two young men work as regular employees already several years. One is employed in Benešov Hospital, the other in an upholstery workshop Aksamite in Lederovice. On man helps in a joinery workshop, one woman helps with cleaning in several households, another one arranged cleaning job in Agentura Rytmus, which also provides work training. Others train their working habits and skills during activities in the house and around it; it means mainly work in the farm, in the woods, cooking, household keeping. If they are not employed outside Villa, they work regularly in the social-therapeutic workshop. The work there is very diverse – from handmade works to furniture repairs.
